NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY, Thursday, May 14, 2009 – Family, friends and colleagues gathered in the Education Centre at Northumberland Hills Hospital this evening to recognize hospital employees at the annual ceremony celebrating staff accomplishments.

Long Service Awards were presented to staff with 10 to 35 years of service to the hospital. Including medical staff, a total of 45 individuals were recognized, with 18 of those completing more than 30 years.

Also announced were this year's recipients of the hospital's Leadership and Innovation Awards. These distinctions, given to two individuals, are awarded on the basis of nominations from within the hospital team, and acknowledge extraordinary employees who go above and beyond the call of duty to make a difference at NHH.

Pat Busch, RN, received NHH's Excellence in Leadership Award. The Team Leader in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU), Pat has a long history of demonstrating leadership in the ICU area. In presenting the award, President and CEO Robert Biron highlighted some of Pat's more recent achievements: "This Award recognizes Pat's direct role in championing the Provincial Critical Care Strategy at NHH as well as her work on critical care coaching teams. These teams have had a direct impact on ICU physician coverage and end-of-life standards of care."

The Outstanding Innovation Award was presented to Paula Elliott, Cook, for her continued creativity in planning Main Street Bistro and special hospital event menus. Said Robert Biron: "Paula's demonstrates a consistent willingness to be flexible and do whatever is needed to get the job done. Most recently, her contribution to the success of the team's temporary food kiosk during the Bistro renovations ensured the operation ran smoothly and efficiently. We are fortunate to have Paula as a member of our Food Services team."

Education Awards were also presented. Nineteen NHH staff members received recognition for personal education achievements in the past year, with a broad range of academic accomplishments recognized.
